WHAT'S THE SEBBM?

The Spanish Society for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (SEBBM), founded in 1963, currently counts with more than 3,700 members and is the main scientific group that coordinates the extensive activity related to Biochemistry and Molecular Biology in Spain. The SEBBM contributed significantly to the creation of the Federation of European Biochemical Societies (FEBS) in 1964, it represents Spain in the International Union of Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (IUBMB), and is one of the founding members of the Confederation of Spanish Scientific Societies (COSCE).

SEBBM CONGRESS

The next annual congress will be held in July 2019 in Madrid.

Each year, the congress hosts near one thousand attendees and brings together more than 200 oral communications, 500 poster presentations, in addition to plenary lectures and thematic interest groups that bring together partners with specific interests. The biochemical societies of Argentina, Chile, Mexico and Portugal, as well as the Pan-American association for Biochemistry and Molecular Biology (PABMB), regularly attend the SEBBM Congress. The SEBBM Congress also includes a dissemination program named Biochemistry in the City, a research initiation course for undergraduate students and a professional development workshop for young researchers.

SEBBM MAGAZINE

The SEBBM magazine, which was launched at the same time as the Society, is dedicated to the dissemination culture, analysis and reflection of the public and private research policies and the promotion of the social values of science.

It publishes monographic themes in each of its quarterly editions, related to the scientific, cultural and social expectations of hot topics in science.
